

AMS Grizzly Gazette

Real Students, Real Stories: The Grizzly Gazette is Here for You

On January 13th, the idea popped into a young student's head to start a newspaper. This newspaper, to be precise. Some people may feel AMS has always been slightly overshadowed. We only get about 6 seconds of BBN time and we are underrepresented to the point that sometimes, people don't even know when's what and what's when. It is high time we got some representation of our own. Welcome to the AMS Grizzly Gazette, a newspaper just for AMS. We tell you what's going on in the world of AMS, have fun competitions, and are here to report the real stories that the school

Club Craze: Knots For NICU

While many people don't know this, but we have our very own non-profit organization. Knots for NICU is a club open to both AMS and high schoolers. In this club, students crochet hats and headbands, and they sew blankets and scent hearts. Also, for the small babies who do not make it out of the NICU, students can sew angel blankets and burial gowns. This organization relies on the kindness of others and donations from generous families. If interested, check out the website at knotsformicu.com!

needs to here about AMS. A student, Anuhya MaranReddy of the 7th Grade, states, "I would probably be really happy if we had a newspaper, 'cause, like, we are kind of ignored, high schoolers hate us, and it would be cool to be able to showcase clubs and other events." We also interviewed many other AMS students. While some were skeptical, majority of interviewed students were supportive of the idea. Many people said that they would read it! We can't wait to see what's in store for this in the upcoming months! If you have any feedback for us, or want to be a part in the Student Spotlight (featured next issue), contact us at the lunch table with the sign by the left most screen. Feel free to share your stories with us!
